MENTORING / THESIS SUPERVISION

CIS/ISCTE- Lisbon University Institute

As a researcher at CIS/ISCTE-IUL, I mentored several PhD students through the Eco-Group I founded in 2010. I met each week with students and post-docs engaged in research involving the social psychology of environmental sustainability. We discussed current directions in the field and critiqued and focused the research of our members. At the 6th International PhD Meeting in Social and Organizational Psychology (held in May 2011 in Lisbon) I served as the discussant for two sessions- for a PhD student from the UK, on the topic of consumer decisions and another PhD student from Italy, on the topic of environmental sustainability decisions. Also at CIS/ISCTE-IUL, I supervised a very talented master's student who was awarded an internship (2010-2012) to assist in my research.

University of California, Davis

During my visiting lectureship at the University of California, Davis, I supervised a talented undergraduate in the successful completion of an honors project in the area of interpersonal attraction.

University of Colorado, Boulder

As a graduate student and post-doctoral affiliate, I directly mentored over 20 undergraduate research assistants, training them to assist in my research projects as well as their own honors theses. One of my undergraduate research assistants received UROP funding to assist in my research. Another particularly talented undergraduate received a grant from PSI CHI to travel to the University of Colorado for a summer to conduct research with Dr. Angela Bryan and me.
