- Completed Challenger Deep, a ten-movement work written for electronic chamber orchestra that synthesizes the heavily emphasized audio production elements of Planets with the more compositional, thematic aesthetics of Hohenheim Suites to create something wholly new. Challenger Deep investigates deeper issues modern society faces through the lens of my late grandfather Edward Codrington. Codrington was a fisherman from Barbados in the early 20th century. His unique status as a master of his craft with a rare motorized vessel gave him access to waters that other fishermen couldn't venture into. In the vein of Dante Alighieri's The Divine Comedy, this motif was used to tell a story where Codrington descends from the surface of the sea all the way down to the "Challenger Deep," the lowest part of Earth's deepest ocean, the Mariana Trench. His journey will be the catalyst to explore themes ranging from the effects of climate change, the ever-mysterious contents of Earth's oceans, to the fates of enslaved African people whose bodies never made it to the Americas and beyond.

Composition Experience

- Extensive experience composing & arranging for large and small ensembles throughout undergraduate & graduate programs from 2015-2020 such as the Western Michigan University Advanced Jazz ensemble directed by Dr. Andrew Rathbun. Responsibilities in this ensemble included programming several concerts per year made entirely of original works from each ensemble member. Regular collaborations with different departments of the college such as visual arts and dance were expected, resulting in many multi-disciplinary projects that involved original composition. For example, a 2015 collaboration with the visual arts department saw a climate change themed presentation of live-action footage projected onto a large, hand-assembled structure while the ensemble's original works were performed alongside it.
- Among collaborations within the Western Michigan University Advanced Jazz Ensemble, the collaboration with new music and electronic composer Dr. Christopher Biggs yielded "Obsidian Galaxy," a work written for Nonet and live electronic audio processing that won the Herb Alpert Young Jazz Composer Award in 2019.

- "The Archangel Suite" was a 4-movement multi-disciplinary work written for electronic jazz ensemble and live visual projections that premiered in Kalamazoo, Michigan in March 2019. Independently produced, the work was written in collaboration with visual artist Peter Warner and features a narrative driven presentation of the composer's interpretation of the four most common Archangels that appear in various sacred texts.
- Was named a winner of National Sawdust's 2020 New Works Commission Contest which included a commission to write for the world renowned JACK Quartet. The commissioned piece "III. Gate's Closing" premiered live at National Sawdust in 2020, and is featured as the 6th track in Hohenheim Suites.
- Commissioned by percussionist Parker Fadoul and head of percussion studies at Boston Conservatory at Berklee (as well as percussion faculty at Berklee College of Music) Nancy Zeltsman to write a chamber piece for marimba and MalletStation as a part of an initiative to create more repertoire for the relatively new aforementioned MIDI controller instrument. "Melding" was completed in 2020 with a premiere to be announced in the coming months.

- Was selected to attend Banff Center of the Arts' Jazz and Creative Music seminar for the month of June, 2019. Lead by directors Vijay Iyer and Tyshawn Sorey, attendees were given the opportunity to compose and perform in 3 different ensembles while receiving instruction from world renowned visiting musicians such as Mimi Jones, Ingrid Jensen, Steve Lehman, Matana Roberts, and more during the seminar. Attendees were granted full access to the musical resources provided by the facility, and were encouraged to use these resources for personal documentation or distribution.
- Premiered Planets live with electronics in New York in 2021
- Developed "Space Jazz," an electronic chamber jazz ensemble that focuses on pushing the limits of instrumental performance. 2023-2025 Herbie Hancock Institute member Yakiv Tsvietinskyi plays the role of pianist, synth bassist, and trumpeter in this ensemble simultaneously. EWI 4000s and tenor saxophone are used to play the role of solo monophonic instrument and bass synth interchangeably, while 2023-2025 Herbie Hancock Institute member Ebs Daramola plays the role of drummer. The ensemble investigates all of the timbral and orchestrational possibilities with this extremely unique instrumentation.
- Developed a collection of music for electronic jazz quintet focused heavily on counterpoint and orchestration. The music of Challenger Deep though meant to push the boundaries of music production, orchestration and sound design, all of the music is compatible with the more traditional instrumentation of a "jazz quintet" for further live exploration.
