2.7. Other Research Activities

In the 2003-04 academic year, I was a faculty participant in a seminar sponsored by the CU Tocqueville Center for the Study of America in a Globalizing World. Participants included faculty and doctoral students. Each week, participants presented work in progress and engaged in discussions about it. My project for the seminar was subsequently published as a journal article by the title "Communication, global justice and the moral economy."

In the academic year 1999-2000, I convened (with a colleague in Geography) a year-long faculty seminar on Globalization, Information Technology, and Democracy, funded by a $41,000 grant from the University of Colorado's Alliance for Technology, Learning and Society (ATLAS). The grant provided for graduate research assistantships and faculty course reductions for individuals from several different CU departments and colleges (Anthropology, Sociology, Geography, Political Science, Philosophy, English, and History, and the Schools of Business, Law, and Journalism and Mass Communication). The grant also was used to bring a visiting lecturer (Professor Kevin Robins) to CU for a week to meet with the seminar and CU classes, as well as to give a public lecture. The seminar, which met twice a month, examined the impact of the globalization of communication and information technology and services on conceptions of citizenship and the practice of democracy.

Research Conferences Organized:

1. The Content and Context of Digital Culture. Three-part symposium held at the University of Colorado, Boulder, during academic year 2011-2012. Events on: November 7-8, 2011, February 27-29, 2012, March 13-14, 2012.
2. A Rights Revolution? Communication Rights and Global Justice. Research colloquium held at the University of Colorado, Boulder. April 1-3, 2005.

4.2. University Service (major service activities at CU)

Member of CMCI (College of Media, Communication and Information) Implementation Committee. AY 2013-14. Chaired the committee that developed and proposed a plan for a new Department of Media Studies (developed curriculum and B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degree programs). Also served on the committee that proposed the new College. The College and the Department were approved by the CU Board of Regents in Spring 2014.

Chaired an interdisciplinary committee, with faculty from Linguistics, Anthropology, Geography, Film Studies, Communication, and Journalism & Mass Communication, to develop the framework for a Department of Media Studies. AY 2012-13. The culminating work of the committee was to submit a detailed report/proposal to the Provost, outlining the concept and rationale for a Department of Media Studies. This proposal provided the initial framework for the proposal that will go to the CU Board of Regents in April 2013, along with proposals for other academic units that are being proposed for a new College of Media, Communication and Information.

Chair, Digital Curation Postdoctoral Fellowship Search Committee. Applied for and obtained campus funding for a two-year postdoctoral fellow, and led a successful search to hire someone currently employed at CU-Boulder and working on various arts and journalism digital archiving projects.

Chair, ICJMT (Information, Communication, Journalism, Media and Technology) Steering Committee. Summer 2011 – Summer 2012. I chaired a committee, appointed by the Provost, that was charged with developing a proposal for a new College and a related Institute to respond to a growing campus-wide interdisciplinary interest in media and communication. The committee's detailed report responded to a wide range of input from faculty, administrators, students, and external constituencies.

Associate Dean, SJMC (8/08 – 7/12). The position was fifty percent service, with my remaining duties being thirty percent research, and twenty percent teaching. My primary duties were as dean of graduate studies, which included chairing M.A. and Ph.D. admissions committees and the committee to evaluate doctoral student progress, organizing faculty and graduate student research colloquia, and conducting workshops for graduate students. The position came with other responsibilities, including serving as summer session dean, and serving on campus committees to represent the SJMC.

Member, ARPAC (Academic Review and Planning Advisory Committee), the standing campus committee responsible for program review of academic units, Spring 2009 – Fall 2011.

Member, School of Information Task Force, a campus committee charged with exploring the development of a new School or College focused on the development and uses of information and communication technologies and applications, 2009 – 2010.

Chair, SJMC graduate curriculum strategic planning “cluster.” Developed plans for future curriculum revisions in the M.A. and Ph.D. programs, 2008 – 2009.

Member, SJMC ad hoc “Code of Conduct” committee, 2008 – 2009.

Head, SJMC Media Studies Sequence, 2007 – 2008.

Chair, SJMC ad hoc Committee on School Course Release Policies, 2007.

Member, Internal Review Committee for the Program Review of the Department of Comparative Literature, 2006.

Chair, SJMC Annual Faculty Evaluation Committee, 2003 – 2006.

Chair, SJMC Program Review Self-Study Committee, 2002 – 2003. Coordinated the production of all aspects of the report, wrote several major sections and appendices, and edited the entire document.

Member, SJMC Strategic Planning Committee, 2002 – 2003.

Member, SJMC doctoral Progress and Evaluation Committee, 1998 – 2005.

Director, Interdisciplinary Graduate Certificate Program in Media and Communication, 1995 – 2000.

Alliance for Technology, Learning, and Society (ATLAS) Steering Committee, 1997 – present.

48th Conference on World Affairs planning committee, and chair, Media and Communications subcommittee, 1995 – 1996.

SJMC Ph.D. Admissions Committee, 1995 – 1997; 2005, 2006).

SJMC Graduate Curriculum Committee, 1992, chair from 1993 – 2000.

SJMC Personnel Committee, 2000 – 2002.

SJMC Promotion and Tenure Committee, 2002 – 2004.

Chair, CU Law School Dean's Advisory Committee on faculty re-appointment decision, 2002.

School of Journalism and Mass Communication's "J2001 and Pre-JMC Committee" (ad hoc committee to revise introductory writing courses and prerequisites for qualification as an undergraduate major), 1994 – 1998.

CU Archives Advisory Board, 1994 – 1999.

Public lectures and symposia organized:

"The Content and Context of Digital Culture." Organized and ran three symposia at the University of Colorado-Boulder in academic year 2011-2012 (Nov. 7-8, 2011; Feb. 27-28, 2012, and March 13-14, 2012). The events included panels and several speakers from CU and other U.S. and foreign universities.

Cees Hamelink, Professor of Communication, University of Amsterdam, 4/1/05 (Crosman Lecture).

Janet Wasko, Professor of Journalism and Communication, University of Oregon, 3/6/03 (Crosman Lecture).

Kevin Robins, Professor of Media and Communications, Goldsmiths College, University of London, 4/28/00 (funded by ATLAS and SJMC).

Douglas Kellner, Professor of Philosophy, University of Texas-Austin, 4/8/96.

David Flaherty, Professor of History and Law, University of Western Ontario, 4/27/93 (co-organized with the Sociology Department).

Slavko Splichal, Professor and Dean of the Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Ljubljana, Slovenia, 4/1-2/93.

Hanno Hardt, Professor of Journalism and Mass Communication, University of Iowa, 2/12-15/93.

The Politics of Technology in the New Communications Order. Panel featuring four members of the National Association of Regulatory Utility Commissioners (NARUC), 2/11/93.

Lars Qvortrup, Associate Professor, University of Odense, Denmark, 4/17/92.

4.3. Other Research-related Outreach Activities

Media Access Project, Washington, DC (4/02). I wrote a 20-page report for the Media Access Project, a Washington, DC-based public interest advocacy organization. The report, titled “Comments on the Belo and Media General Studies, and an Analysis of the Diversity Question,” was filed by MAP with the Federal Communications Commission on April 17, 2002. It analyzes evidence and arguments that have been used by industry lobbyists to persuade the commission to eliminate its current prohibition on newspaper-broadcast co-ownership in the same local market. The report can be found at:

<http://www.mediaaccess.org/filings/calabreseFCCfiling.pdf>. Following the filing of this report, I was invited by the Denver Rocky Mountain News to write an article on the subject: “If FCC Chairman Powell Has His Way, Independent Voices Will Be Further Curtailed,” Rocky Mountain News, 24 May: 22B. Reprinted in the Salt Lake Tribune, 31 May 2003.

RAI (Radiotelevisione Italiana). (11/97). Produced a subcontractor’s report titled Surrendering Standards: Contemporary Dilemmas in the Commercialization of News and Current Affairs Programming in the United States, for RAI’s “2nd United Nations World Television Forum.” Contractor was Kevin Robins, Center for Urban and Regional Development Standards, University of Newcastle (UK), in association with the European Broadcast Union. I have since then published a substantially revised version of the report as “Political space and the trade in television news” (2000 – see above under “Book Chapters”), and an updated version of it is being published in Blackwell’s A Companion to Television (in press – see above).

Budapest University of Economics, Budapest, Hungary (6/95). Produced report on curriculum development in communication studies in the United States, and consulted on possible direction in curriculum reform at BUE.

Louisville Cable Re-Franchising Commission, Louisville, Colorado (1/95-5/95). Served as commission member and consulted on the expansion of cable interconnection and access services and facilities.

Indiana Economic Development Council (IEDC), Indianapolis, Indiana (12/90). Did policy-relevant research on rural telecommunications development in Indiana.

Online Computer Library Center (OCLC), Inc., Dublin, Ohio (1/87). Conducted study of electronic document delivery among scholars.

WOSU/TV-AM-FM, Columbus, Ohio (6/86). Directed field research and data analysis of viewer and listener characteristics of the WOSU public station audiences.

Health Spectrum, Inc., Columbus, Ohio (6/83 – 12/83). Researched applications of telecommunications for home health care delivery.
