EXTERNAL RESEARCH GRANTS AND CONTRACTS AWARDED

“Mortality among High Risk Young Men in the United States” (R03HD099360). Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development ($154,000 total costs; $100,000 direct costs). David C. Pyrooz, principal investigator; Richard G. Rogers and Ryan K. Masters, co-investigators. Project period: August 1, 2019 – July 31, 2022 (with one-year no cost extension).

This project documents mortality risk among gang members, an understudied but extremely high-risk subpopulation in the United States. Gangs are street- and youth-oriented groups that share a collective identity and engage in high levels of criminal or delinquent activity. As much as 8% of the population has a history of gang involvement by their early twenties, and gang members are disproportionately male, black or Latino, low socioeconomic status, and located in urban environments. Prior studies have reported mortality statistics on gang members, but this research suffers from small sample sizes of gang members and deaths, sometimes crudely constructed comparison groups or the absence of a comparison group, and a lack of systematic data collection on mortality, including cause-of-death. We are conducting the most comprehensive investigation into the gang membership-mortality association extant.

“The University of Colorado Population Center.” Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development (NICHD). P2CHD066613. Lori Hunter, principal investigator and Center Director; Richard Rogers co-principal investigator and Development Core Director (through June, 2021). Project dates: 6/1/20–2/28/25.

This grant provides population research infrastructural support to the established University of Colorado Population Center (CUPC) within our Population Program. Our core services—Administration, Development, and Scientific/Technical Research Support—sustain research quality and quantity; provide demographic mentoring and training, especially to junior investigators; encourage collaborative and interdisciplinary demographic research; facilitate interaction among researchers nationally and internationally; promote dissemination of demographic research; and build bridges among departments, institutes, programs, centers, and universities.

“University of Colorado Interdisciplinary Training in Demography and Genetics.” NIH National Research Service Award (NRSA) T32 Institutional Training Grant. National Institute on Aging. Jason Boardman, Mike Stallings, and Matt McQueen, Directors/Pis. Richard Rogers, Participating Faculty Member. Five-year grant: 2017-2021.

Over a five-year period, this program would support 2 predoctoral trainees and 1 postdoctoral fellow for 3 three-year cohorts in population and genetics studies. Year 3 would have the largest number of trainees, with 6 predoctoral students and 3 postdoctoral fellows. The predoctoral students would be split each cohort between IBS and IBG; they would have to take core classes in both areas, attend the BGA meetings, PAA meetings, and IGSS meetings. In this program, trainees will work closely with faculty on collaborative research, including publications and grant proposals. We expect to train and produce independent scholars who contribute new and important demographic and genetic knowledge.

“Early Life Mortality in the United States” (1R01HD082106-01A1). Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development ($553,654 total costs). Richard G. Rogers, principal investigator; Robert A. Hummer, co-principal investigator; and Daniel Powers and Elizabeth M. Lawrence, consultants. September 1, 2015–December 31, 2019 (with a one-year no-cost extension; GRANT11775831).

This project is developing an in-depth understanding of early life mortality (ages 0-24) in the United States in the context of substantial racial/ethnic inequality and very rapid socioeconomic and family changes that have occurred in recent decades. We are documenting the associations between the risk of overall and cause-specific early life mortality with parental socioeconomic status, family structure, and race/ethnicity. We are doing so for demographic subpopulations, for the contemporary time period and with regard to changes over the past 25 years, and for geographic areas of the country. This project has enormous potential to produce new and important substantive and policy-relevant information about U.S. early life mortality, a critical but woefully overlooked area of study.

“Anomaly in the Gradient: Health of U.S. Adults with Subbaccalaureate Education.” Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development Grant 1R03 AG050130-01 ($144,000 total costs). Anna Zajacova, University of Wyoming, principal investigator; Richard G. Rogers, consultant. May 15, 2016 – April 30, 2018.

This study will explain the unexpected relationship that individuals who attend college but do not complete a bachelor’s degree report worse health than either high school graduates who never attend college or individuals who complete a bachelor’s degree. To unravel the association between education and health, we will employ three nationally representative data sets that include rich information, including detailed social, economic, and biomarker data.

“The University of Colorado Population Center.” Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development (NICHD). P2CHD066613 ($1,283,263 total costs). Lori Hunter, principal investigator; Richard Rogers and Jason Boardman, co-principal investigators. Project dates: 9/1/15–5/31/20.

This development grant provided population research infrastructural support to build the University of Colorado Population Center (CUPC) within our Population Program, IBS.

“The University of Colorado Population Center.” Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development (NICHD). R24 HD066613 ($2,069,736 total costs; $1,394,540 direct costs). Fred Pampel, principal investigator; Richard Rogers, Jason Boardman, Lori Hunter, and Jane Menken, co-principal investigators, 09/27/10-05/31/15.

“NICHD Population Center.” Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development. R21 HD 51146 ($924,089 total costs; $641,334 direct costs). Principal investigator, 07/07/05-05/31/11 (including a one-year no-cost extension).

“Global Research Training in Population Health.” Fogarty International Center (FIC), National Institutes of Health. D43 TW007694 ($754,601 total costs). Principal investigator, 09/20/06 – 03/31/11 (co-PIs Jane Menken, Enid Schatz, and Jill Williams).

This program, with an emphasis on sub-Saharan Africa, trains demographers and population scientists in the measurement, monitoring, and evaluation of central population health issues. Moreover, this grant supports the establishment and development of the new Global Research and Training in Population Health (GRTPH) program.

“Educational Differences in U.S. Adult Mortality.” Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development. 1 R01 HD053696-01 ($845,832 total costs, Robert A. Hummer, University of Texas, principal investigator). Subcontract from UT-Austin to CU-Boulder ($246,000 total costs over three years). Co-investigator, 08/01/06 - 07/31/10 (including a one-year no-cost extension).

This study developed an improved understanding of the relationships between education and overall and cause-specific adult mortality among U.S. adults and among various subgroups of the U.S. adult population. Although the overall relationship between educational level and adult mortality risk has been well-documented, surprisingly little attention has been given to how this relationship varies by race/ethnicity, nativity, gender, age, and cause of death. To accomplish our goals, we used the National Health Interview Survey-Multiple Cause of Death (NHIS-MCD) linked files, which provide information on nearly 1 million U.S. adults aged 25 and above, and over 100,000 identified subsequent deaths.

“African Population Studies Research and Training Program.” Hewlett Foundation 2005-6516, 10/1/05-9/30/06 ($400,000), and Hewlett Foundation 2006-8377, 10/1/06-9/30/09 ($900,000). Jane Menken, principal investigator, Richard Rogers, co-principal investigator.

This project, a continuation of the projects funded by the Mellon Foundation, addressed population issues of southern Africa through development of social science researchers in Africa and through collaborative research with southern African institutions on population health, migration, and environment issues.

“Videoconferencing Equipment for the African Populations Studies Research and Training Program.” The William and Flora Hewlett Foundation ($23,000 total costs). Jane Menken, principal investigator, Richard Rogers, co-principal investigator, 10/01/06-09/30/07.

This grant provided us the ability to videoconference with our colleagues at other campuses within the U.S. and at our partner institutions in Africa, which is an enormous benefit to our African Population Studies Research and Training Program.

“Religious Involvement and Adult Mortality in the United States.” National Science Foundation No. SES-0243249 ($49,015 total costs to the University of Colorado; collaborative proposal with Robert A. Hummer, University of Texas). Principal investigator, 04/01/03-03/31/05.

This project investigated the pathways by which religious involvement works to influence the risk of overall and cause-specific mortality.

“Income and Assets, Race/Ethnicity, and U.S. Adult Mortality.” National Science Foundation No. SES-9906145 ($73,000 total costs to the University of Colorado; collaborative proposal with Robert A. Hummer, University of Texas). Principal investigator, 09/01/99-08/31/02.

“Factors Affecting Ethnic Differences in Adult Mortality.” National Science Foundation Grant No. SBR-9617905 ($73,100 total costs to the University of Colorado; collaborative proposal with Robert A. Hummer, University of Texas). Principal investigator, 1997-2000.

“Sociodemography of Smoking and Mortality of Adults.” National Institute on Aging Grant No. 1R01 AG10113-01A2 ($266,165 total costs, $107,978 total subcontract costs with Florida State University). Co-principal investigator (with Charles Nam), 1994-1996.

“Linking Death Records to Survey Data: An Application to the NHIS.” National Center for Health Statistics, Hyattsville, MD ($17,650). Principal investigator, 1993-1994.

“Demographic Patterns in Smoking Behavior.” American Cancer Society Grant No. PBR-46 ($47,000). Principal investigator, 1989-91.

“Forecasting Active Life Expectancy and Population.” National Institute on Aging Grant No. 1R01 AG06992-01A1 ($59,750). Co-principal investigator (with Andrei Rogers), 1988-90.

“Evaluating Infant Mortality: Trends, Measures, and Preventive Indexes.” National Science Foundation. Dissertation Research Grant ($1,041). Principal investigator, 1985-86.

“Endogenous and Exogenous Infant Mortality Proxies.” National Center for Health Services Research. Dissertation Research Grant ($20,000). Principal investigator, 1984-85.

Doctoral Student Dissertation Grants

“Doctoral Dissertation Research: Biobehavioral Factors and Health Disparities.” National Science Foundation. Grant SES-0927370 ($9,825 total costs); effective 9/1/2009-8/31/2010. Faculty sponsor of Bethany G. Everett.

“Race/Ethnic and Sex Disparities in Physical Activity.” Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. Dissertation Research Grant 1R03

HS013996-01 ($27,615 total costs); effective 2003-2005. Faculty sponsor of Patrick M. Krueger.

“Physical Activity and Aging in the U.S.” National Science Foundation. Dissertation Research Grant SES-0221093 ($4,836 total costs); effective 2002-2004. Faculty sponsor of Patrick M. Krueger.

INTERNAL RESEARCH AWARDS

“Discovering Mortality Risk among Gang Members,” IBS Research Development Award. David C. Pyrooz, principal investigator; Ryan Masters and Richard Rogers, co-principal investigators ($15,000). Project dates: March 9, 2017 – March 8, 2018.

IBS summer hourly research assistant award for Andrea Tilstra ($750 to $2500). For summer 2017 (awarded on 3/15/17).

“Preliminary Examination of Early Life Mortality in the United States.” University of Colorado Population Center (CUPC) Development Grant. $7,500. Richard Rogers, principal investigator, 12/01/13-11/01/14.

“Religious Involvement and Adult Mortality in the U.S.” Council on Research and Creative Work, University of Colorado ($4,000). Principal investigator, 2002-2003

Big 12 University Fellowship Award to support research at the University of Texas at Austin during Fall 2000 ($2,500).

“Smoking and Mortality among Adults.” Council on Research and Creative Work, CU ($3,500). Principal investigator, 1993-94.

“Forecasting Active Life Expectancy and Population: A Continuation.” Council on Research and Creative Work, CU ($3,240). Principal investigator, 1991-92.

“Cigarette Smoking in the United States.” Council on Research and Creative Work, CU ($4,154). Principal investigator, 1989.

“Determining Risk Factors Associated with Sudden Infant Death Syndrome: A Log-Linear Approach.” Council on Research and Creative Work, CU ($5,000). Principal investigator, 1986.

RESEARCH GRANTS AND CONTRACTS SUBMITTED

“University of Colorado Population Center.” Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development (NICHD). Requested funds: $2,454,499 total costs. Lori Hunter, principal investigator; Richard Rogers, Project Lead for Development Core. Proposed project dates: 6/1/20–5/31/25. Submitted on 8/30/19.

This proposal requests renewal of our University of Colorado Population Center (CUPC). CUPC's core services – through the administrative and development cores – sustain research quality and quantity; provide demographic mentoring and training, especially to junior investigators; encourage collaborative and interdisciplinary demographic research; facilitate interaction among researchers nationally and internationally; promote dissemination of demographic research; and build bridges among departments, institutes, programs, centers, and universities.

“Using Data from the National Health Interview Survey Linked Mortality File to Produce National and State Estimates of Cause-Specific Mortality Attributable to Cigarette Smoking in the United States.” Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. R03 grant application ($152,000 total costs). Robert A. Hummer, principal investigator; Y. Claire Yang, Joseph T. Lariscy, and Richard G. Rogers, co-investigators. February 1, 2016 – January 31, 2018. Submitted October 4, 2015.

This project aims to develop an improved understanding of the linkage between cigarette smoking and cause-specific adult mortality in the contemporary United States. Accomplishing our overall aim involves both methodological and substantive goals. Substantively, we will make new and refined estimates of the mortality burden of cigarette smoking in the United States, based on nationally-representative data for adults aged 35 and above. We will extend previous studies by assessing the relationship between cigarette smoking and cause-specific mortality for major population subgroups, defined by both gender and race/ethnicity; and calculating the number of smoking-attributable deaths for the United States as a whole and also for specific states. State-specific estimates are extremely important because some key health and social policy decisions related to smoking (e.g., minimum legal age for purchasing tobacco, cigarette taxes, Medicaid expansion under the Affordable Care Act) are made by states. The gender/race-specific estimates will allow us to better pinpoint the subgroups of the population for which smoking cessation efforts and/or health policies should particularly focus.

RECENT PRESENTATIONS AND OTHER ACTIVITIES AT PROFESSIONAL MEETINGS

Elizabeth M. Lawrence, Richard G. Rogers, and Robert A. Hummer presented “Sex Differences in Adolescent and Young Adult Mortality” at the annual meeting of the Southern Demographic Association in San Antonio, Texas, October 18-20, 2023.

Richard G. Rogers presented “Aging Patterns and Trends in the United States from a Demographic Perspective” at the annual meeting of the Southern Demographic Association in San Antonio, Texas, October 18-20, 2023.

Elizabeth M. Lawrence, Richard G. Rogers, and Robert A. Hummer presented “Sex Differences in Adolescent and Young Adult Mortality” in the session titled “Masculinities and Demographic Behavior” at the annual meeting of the Population Association of America in New Orleans, Louisiana, April 12-15, 2023.

INVITED PRESENTATIONS/CONSULTATIONS

Presented “Early Life Mortality in the United States: Insights from the Restricted-Use National Health Interview Survey-Linked Mortality Files,” to the Triangle Federal Statistical Research Data Center research workshop, Duke University, April 26, 2019.

Presented “Racial/Ethnic Differences in U.S. Early Life Mortality: A Test of the Hispanic Paradox,” to the Florida State University Department of Sociology, March 23, 2017.

Presented “A 21st Century Demographic Challenge: High and Increasing Life Expectancies in the United States” (with Elizabeth M. Lawrence, and Robert A. Hummer) at the International Symposium on Demographic Dynamics and Societal Change in the 21st Century in Seoul, South Korea, December 14-16, 2014. The symposium was sponsored by the Korea Institute for Health and Social Affairs (KIHASA) and the Population Association of Korea (PAK).

Presented “Understanding Authorship in Collaborative Research” at the Professionalization Workshop, Department of Sociology, Rice University, Houston, Texas. February 28, 2014.

Presented “Sex Differentials in Mortality” at the Australian Demographic & Social Research Institute, Australian National University, Canberra, Australia, November 8, 2013.

Presented the keynote speech, “Alcohol Consumption and Mortality,” at Innovations in Australian Mortality Research: Analysis, Models and Methods Workshop, held at Australian National University, Canberra, Australia, November 11, 2013.

Presented the keynote speech, “Socioeconomic and Behavioral Determinants of Mortality” at the Australasian Mortality Data Interest Group (AMDIG) Workshop, held at Australian National University, Canberra, Australia, November 12-13, 2013.

Chair, three-member external review team, Department of Demography, the University of Texas at San Antonio, March 21-22, 2013.

Presented, “Mortality in the United States: Behavioral, Health, and Social Factors” at the Hannover Underwriting Seminar, Miami, Florida, February 19-21, 2012.

Presented “Teetotalers and Mortality Risk” (with Patrick Krueger, Richard Miech, and Elizabeth M. Lawrence) at the Determinants of Unusual and Differential Longevity International Conference, in Vienna, Austria, November 21-23, 2012.

Presented “Alcohol Consumption and Mortality,” to the Rice University Department of Sociology and Kinder Institute for Urban Research, and the University of Houston Center for Drug and Social Policy Research, September 21, 2011.

Presented in the invited panel, “Future Directions for the U.S. Vital Statistics System Mortality Data,” at the National Conference on Health Statistics, Washington, DC, August 16-18, 2010.

Presented “Sex Differentials in Mortality: The Importance of Demographic, Socioeconomic, and Behavioral Factors,” to the Division of Social Statistics, University of Southampton, England, June 10, 2008.

Attended the National Research Council’s Committee on National Statistics workshop, “Vital Data for National Needs,” held at the National Academies, Washington, DC, April 30, 2008. Workshop participants discussed the current and future state of the vital statistics system. Presented “Use of Vital Statistics Data to Identify Mortality Trends,” which demonstrated how crucial vital statistics data are in guiding research and making policy decisions.

Participated in a review of population forecasts for the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation Aging Society Network at the MacArthur Foundation, Chicago, IL, April 22, 2008.

Presented “Sex Differentials in Mortality: The Importance of Demographic, Socioeconomic, and Behavioral Factors” to the Center for Population Dynamics (CePoD), Arizona State University, April 24-26, 2008.

Presented “Health Disparities in the United States: The Effects of Socioeconomic Status and Race/Ethnicity on Health and Mortality” to Department of Preventive Medicine and Community Health, University of Texas Medical Branch, Galveston, November 29, 2007.

Presented “Social Disparities and Health: Sex Differentials in Mortality” to Cells to Society (C2S): The Center on Social Disparities and Health at the Institute for Policy Research, Northwestern University, October 29, 2007. The presentation was also videocast live to the Northwestern Medical School and the Evanston Northwestern Healthcare Research Institute.

Attended the expert group meeting on European mortality and morbidity projections for the EU-FP6 project, “Bridging the Micro-macro Gap in Population Forecasting (MicMac),” hosted by the International Institute for Applied Systems Analysis (IIASA) in Vienna, Austria, September 10-12, 2007.

“Sex Differentials in Mortality” presented to the Department of Demography and Organizational Studies and the Institute for Demographic and Socioeconomic Research, University of Texas at San Antonio, June 5, 2007.

“Obesity and Mortality,” presented at the Netherlands Interdisciplinary Demographic Institute (NIDI) in The Hague, Netherlands, May 1, 2007.

One of six members of the National Center for Health Statistics Mortality Statistics Branch on-site review team. December 2005-January 2006.

“Religion Involvement and Cause-Specific Mortality” (with Patrick M. Krueger and Robert A. Hummer). Presented at the conference, “Religion, Families, and Health in the United States.”

April 22-23, 2004, Austin, Texas.

Consulted and served on national advisory panel with Last Acts, Washington, D.C., 2003-2004, about fielding another National Mortality Follow-back Survey (NMFS) through the National Center for Health Statistics (NCHS). This included an advisory meeting at the National Academies, Institute of Medicine, Washington, D.C.

“Black-White Differentials in Adult Homicide Mortality,” presented to the Department of Sociology at Rice University and the School of Public Health at the University of Texas at Houston on December 14, 2000.

“The Effects of Income Sources and Portfolios on Adult Mortality,” presented to the Department of Sociology and the Population Research Center, University of Texas, December 4, 2000.

“Social and Race/Ethnic Differentials in Health and Mortality,” presented to the Department of Sociology at Texas A&M University on December 6, 2000 (with Robert A. Hummer and Parker Frisbie, University of Texas).

“Socioeconomic Status and Age: The Effect of Income Sources and Portfolios on Adult Mortality in the United States,” presented to the Department of Sociology and Population Research Center’s Demography Workshop, University of Chicago, November 16, 2000.

“Comparing Risk Factor Prevalence and Mortality Rates” presented to the Population Studies Colloquia at Florida State University on September 22, 2000.

“Using the 1993 NMFS to Examine Accidental and Violent Causes of Death in the United States,” presented to the National Conference on Health Statistics, Washington, DC, August 2-4, 1999. Sponsored by the National Center for Health Statistics (NCHS), Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

“Social Differentials in Mortality by Cause,” presented in the conference “Studies of Cause of Death,” sponsored by John Wilmoth and Magali Barbieri, Berkeley, California, June 17-20, 1999.

“Changing Patterns in Tobacco Usage,” presented in panel of Society of Actuaries meetings, Atlanta, Georgia, May 24-25, 1999.

“Family Composition, Welfare Support, and Mortality,” presented to the Population Research Center and the Department of Sociology, The University of Texas, Austin, Texas, Feb. 13, 1998.

“The Effects of Family Composition on Mortality,” presented to the Department of Sociology, The Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio, January 30, 1998.

“Mortality in the U.S.: Behavioral, Health, and Social Factors,” presented to the Department of Population Dynamics, Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Maryland, March 31, 1997.

“Mortality Differentials in a Diverse Society,” presented to the Albany Conference, American Diversity: A Demographic Challenge for the Twenty-First Century, sponsored by the Department of Sociology and the Center for Social and Demographic Analysis, State University of New York at Albany, April 15-16, 1994.

“The Graying of America,” presented to CU Director's Club, 25th anniversary, Brown Palace, Denver, CO, February 6, 1994.

“Forecasting Life Expectancy,” to the Summer Institute in Research on Aging. Sponsored by the Brookdale Foundation and the National Institute on Aging. July 19-25, 1992. Warrenton, Virginia.

“Marital and Familial Status and Mortality: Findings from the NHIS, NMFS, and LSOA.” July 21, 1992. National Center for Health Statistics, Hyattsville, MD.

Planning Committee for the Longitudinal Study on Aging II (LSOA II). Sponsored by the National Center for Health Statistics. August 26, 1992. Conference Center, University of Maryland, College Park, MD.

“Active Life Expectancy,” presented to the Department of Sociology, University of Florida, Department of Sociology. October, 1988.

“Comparing European-Origin Immigrants with Mexican Immigrants.” Conference on the Effects of Mexican Immigration on Mexican Americans. Sponsored by the Hispanic Population Studies Program of the Center for Mexican American Studies. Austin, Texas, October, 1982.
