Data Sets

Congressional Bills Project. (National Science Foundation funded) This on-going project, with John Wilkerson (University of Washington), has created a comprehensive database of information about all bills introduced in Congress since 1947 – approximately 430,000 bills. Among other data, we have collected detailed information on bill sponsors, committee(s) of referral, policy content, and action taken on individual bills subsequent to referral. A limited release of the data is now available at <<http://www.congressionalbills.org>>.

Congressional District Data Project. (National Science Foundation funded) This data set includes a wide range of economic, social and geographic information for every U.S. congressional district, from 1943-1998. <http://socsci.colorado.edu/~esadler/Congressional_District_Data.html>

Important Legislation. (National Science Foundation funded) This data set encompasses all 17,663 public laws enacted by Congress between 1945-94, coded into four categories of legislative significance. <<https://www.princeton.edu/~ccameron/datareadme.html>>
