PERFORMANCE REVIEW PRESS QUOTES partial list:

The New York Times 'A Search For Reconciliation From the Mideast To America' "The music beguilingly blended Western and Middle Eastern styles and instrumentation. It borrowed the folk song Sari Gyalin or Sari Gelin, which in Turkish, Armenian and English versions laments the failure of love across ethnic divides." Review by Brian Seibert (re: Unsettled at BAM, David Dorfman/Korhan Basaran Dance).

The New Yorker "a catchy soundtrack really moves things along" (re: Lazer Vaudeville Off Broadway).

Habibi Magazine "Legendary...an extraordinary group of musicians...Jesse's vocals soared in Turkish and Arabic...his expert commentary throughout the evening was delightful...lines between musician and dancer blurred...an irrepressible standing ovation demanded Sherefe's return." (re: Sherefe in Santa Fe, NM).

Rocky Mountain News "Jesse Manno's quadraphonic score flirts with these effects but moves far beyond cliché, nimbly blending all manner of real and electronic sonic splashes, all remaining in perfect sync with the onstage action. The sound is unforgettable." Marc Shulgold, (re: Rainforest).

Allgemeine Zeitung, Germany "The humor and music -a sophisticated sound tapestry by Jesse Manno resembling Laurie Anderson- made for a lively and refreshing show." (re: Second Breakfast).

Mainzer Rhein Zeitung, Germany "Mystical, Penetrating, unconventional music." (re: Foreign Body).

Westword "Unbelievably surreal and beautiful. The songs are delightfully bent, pulsing celebrations that ring like calliope music from a primitive, otherworldly dimension." (re: The Stone Ensemble).
