SIGNIFICANT CURRICULUM CONTRIBUTIONS

Graduate Certificate Program contributions

Founder of the CU Boulder interdisciplinary Graduate Certificate Program in Culture, Language, and Social Practice (CLASP). The Program received administrative approval October 2005 and involves students and faculty from over 18 departments. Currently, the Program has 30+ graduate students actively pursuing the certificate and 100+ alumni.

Undergraduate curriculum and program contributions

Collaborated with colleagues on the development of four tracks (‘subplans’) for the undergraduate program in Linguistics at CU Boulder: (1) Social, Anthropological, and Interactional Linguistics (SAIL); (2) Language and Cognition; (3) TESOL; and (4) Computational Linguistics. The tracks were approved by the administration in Fall 2019 and went into effect Fall 2020.

Drafted new undergraduate course in linguistics to fulfill Human Diversity area of the Core Curriculum requirement: Ling 1020, Languages of the World. Coauthored with David Rood. Received administrative approval November 2012.

Drafted revised application for undergraduate course in linguistics to fulfill American Context area of the Core Curriculum requirement: Ling 1000, Language in US Society. Received administrative approval February 2010.

Drafted revised application for undergraduate course in linguistics to fulfill Human Diversity area of the Core Curriculum requirement: Ling 2400, Language and Gender. Received administrative approval February 2010.

Drafted proposal for new undergraduate curriculum in Women's and Gender Studies at Yale University that allowed for three areas of specialization (Gender Studies, Women's Studies, and Lesbian and Gay Studies). Coauthored with Laura Greene, English Dept. Approved September 1999.
