EMPLOYMENT HISTORY

University of Colorado Boulder

Professor

Department of English, College of Arts & Sciences (2013-Present)

The Herbst Program for Engineering, Ethics & Society, College of Engineering and Applied Science (2019-Present)

CURRENT ADMINISTRATIVE POSITION

Associate Dean for Digital Education, College of Engineering and Applied Science (2021-)

The College of Engineering and Applied Science is a full-degree granting division with the University of Colorado Boulder serving roughly eight-thousand students with bachelor's through doctoral degrees. It is ranked eighteenth best undergraduate engineering program and thirteenth best graduate engineering school by U.S. News and World Report.

My position is new, and the unit is a startup initiated directly by the dean. A member of the dean's leadership team, I am charged to build an inner-college infrastructure for the design, production, marketing, and student support of online programs. The unit is funded through the dean's office.

My accomplishments to date include:

- Founding the unit with an inaugural staff of four in student services and marketing;
- Redesigning student support and marketing plans for the MS-EE, the College's pathbreaking Master of Science on the Coursera platform;
- Developing a follow-on Coursera-based Master of Engineering in Engineering Management;
- Launching marketing campaigns for residential and distance professional masters programs;
- Initiating a degree and certificate development pipeline for new degrees in the College; and

Director, Master of Science in Electrical Engineering on the Coursera Platform.
Department of Electrical, Computer, and Energy Engineering (2022-Present)

The Master of Science in Electrical Engineering on the Coursera platform is the first degree to follow out the disruptive innovation of MOOC education in the degree space. The degree successfully introduced a series of innovations: performance-based admissions, mastery-based learning, automated enrollment, fractional-credit hours, royalty-based faculty incentives, and an eight-week semester. Internal to the University of Colorado Boulder, the MS-EE occasioned the development of a third campus capable of managing automated enrollment and billing. The degree currently enrolls one thousand students annually and has a gross income of approximately $1.5MM.

As director, I manage a staff of four and am responsible for all budgeting, marketing, student services, course development, and policy decisions. I recruit new faculty and oversee the curriculum. I work with Coursera and report to the Chair of the Department, the Dean of the college of Engineering and Applied Science, and the Senior Vice Provost for Online Education.

PRIOR POSITIONS

Faculty Director for Online Innovation, College of Engineering and Applied Science (2019-2021)

As Faculty Director for Online Innovation, I engaged the College of Engineering and Applied Science in a broad discussion of teaching innovation, developing online degree programs, and furthering the MS-EE degree on Coursera. I implemented and directed the College's faculty support for online pedagogy during the pandemic.

Vice Provost and Associate Vice Chancellor for Strategic Initiatives (2016-2019)

As Vice Provost, I was responsible for creating, accelerating, and incubating high-priority projects.

An Officer of the University, I reported directly to the Provost and often worked independently with the Chancellor, the Vice President of the University of Colorado System, and the nine Regents. I had six direct reports, and up to six individuals reporting up through them. The budget was self-funded, with a discretionary startup budget of $600k.

In this position, I built two freestanding units:

- The Office of Academic Innovation
 - Built a portfolio of non-credit MOOCs that generates over $2-3M annually for the University;
 - Architected the nation's first scalable MS in Electrical Engineering, the MS-EE, with the chair of Electrical, Computer, and Energy Engineering on Coursera;
 - Successfully reproduced the MS-EE degree template for the University of Colorado Boulder's Data Science Degree on Coursera;
 - Strategized and implemented the business plan for non-credit MOOC courses, including a successful faculty royalty model;

- Managed the University of Colorado Boulder's response to the Regent's Online Resolution and, with the Dean of Education, designed a hybrid Teacher Leadership Degree aimed at teachers in rural Colorado; and
 - Oversaw the implementation of a new enrollment management system that connected the Offices of the Registrar, the Bursar, and Information Technology in new ways.
- The Office of Global Engagement
 - Coordinated the university's international MOU process;
 - Advanced the Global Ambassadors, a high-level advisory group of significant alumni;
 - Created Global Ambassadors' Internship programs; and
 - Built two educational bridge programs with the UAE Space Agency.

Senior Associate Vice Provost for Education Innovation (2015-2016)

- Chaired the campus committee to design a campus-wide teaching and learning center;
- Co-chaired the University Task Force for International Student Success;
- Supervised Be Boulder Anywhere, a unit designed to advance professional master's degrees;
- Streamlined faculty processes for MOOC development;
- Coordinated the University of Colorado Boulder's Office of Continuing Education with the University of Colorado Denver, and the University of Colorado Colorado Springs, to build the three-campus online Intercampus Degree Program;
- Administered a functional process for the State Authorization Reciprocity Agreement
- Built the Global Ambassadors; and
- Partnered with the University's Laboratory for Atmospheric and Space Physics (LASP), led by Prof. Dan Baker, to build an international partnership with the United Arab Emirates around space science education.

Associate Vice Provost for Education Innovation (2014)

- With the Senior Vice Provost, the Dean of the Graduate School, and the CFO, created a professional master's program initiative called Be Boulder Anywhere. This task included developing a linear tuition model for professional education, as well as reaching out to departments to develop professional programs beyond business and engineering; and
- With the Dean of Students and the Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs, developed a new vision for the University's student orientation program, rebranding it as the New Student Welcome Program and introducing an online platform, including digital enrollment.

Faculty Associate (2013 to 2014)

While Chair of English, I oversaw the implementation of the University's MOOC initiative.

Chair, Department of English (2010 to 2014, renewed)

The Department consisted of forty-seven tenure-track faculty, four full-time instructors, and a staff of six producing almost 30,000 student credit hours per semester, serving almost 1,000 undergraduate majors and 120 graduate students. I became Chair after the Department received a negative program review in 2009.

- Mentored assistant professors and created research grants for associate professors;
- Fundraising activities pulled alumni back to the Department and, in turn, pulled English into the University's advancement efforts;
- Administered seventeen successful promotion cases;
- Devised bonuses for the classified staff and prizes for faculty achievement;
- Produced a twice-yearly alumni magazine;
- Instituted an independent climate survey and an annual workshop;
- Developed a holistic plan for enrollment management, including large-lecture courses; lowered enrollment ceilings in graduate-taught courses and my upper-level seminars; and
- With the Graduate Director, reallocated funding to create nationally competitive packages.

These combined efforts transformed the department's graduate and undergraduate course structure, putting more undergraduates in contact with tenure-line faculty, focusing the doctoral class on research, and giving the MA class teaching experience and financial support. Since then, the department has moved forward fifteen places in US News and World Report's ranking.

Associate Chair for Undergraduate Studies (2009-2010)

Responsible for scheduling entire curriculum, adjudicating student complaints, hiring adjunct faculty, and serving on College Curriculum Committee. I led the redesign of the Department's curriculum, introduced large lectures, lowered enrollment ceiling on small seminars, and raised the TA appointments for MA students.

PRIOR UNIVERSITIES

University of Southern Mississippi, Hattiesburg, MS, Department of English Chair (2005-2006)

I managed thirty-five tenure-track faculty at Hattiesburg Campus, seven tenure-track faculty at Gulf Coast, six full-time instructors, and eight total staff. Together, we served 400 undergraduate majors in the BA in Literature and in Creative Writing, seventy-five graduate students in MA in Literature, as well as a PhD in Literature and Creative Writing. Sustained the Department through the disruption caused by Hurricane Katrina. By the end of my first year as chair, the English Department led the University's successful reaccreditation with SACS, and our pilot program won the state of Mississippi's Best Practices Award.

Associate Professor, English (2004)

As an associate professor, in addition to the teaching and research activities listed below, I engaged in two major initiatives that shaped my career in ways I could not have predicted. First, I became active in the Louisiana Endowment for the Humanities' Prime Time Program, a program for families at risk for low literacy. I conducted weekend family seminars in New Orleans' Ninth Ward. Second, I also inherited the University of South Mississippi's Hybrid World Literature Course, from its founder, Prof. Michael N. Salda. Developed through a Pew Grant, this course used distance technology to scale a humanities course. To Prof. Salda's pilot, I added a textbook and more rigorous TA grading. The experience was my first encounter with scalable learning, a project I pursue now.
