

Research Interests

- Encourage more students, especially women and those from nontraditional demographic groups, to pursue interests in the field of engineering. Propel recruitment and retention efforts locally, nationally, and internationally. Broaden the image of engineering, science, and technology to include new forms of communication and problem solving for emerging grand challenges.
- Pinpoint the social and cultural impact of technological choices made by engineers in the process of designing and creating new devices and systems. Identify the intentional and unintentional consequences of durable structures, products, architectures, and standards in engineering education, to target areas for transformative change.

Education

Ph.D.	Department of Mechanical Engineering, University of Colorado Boulder Dissertation titled Actor-Networks of Sophomore Engineering: Durability and Change in Required Sophomore Mathematics Courses , advised by Dr. Daria A. Kotys-Schwartz. Thesis committee: Dr. Margaret Eisenhart and Dr. Kevin O'Connor, School of Education; Dr. Derek Reamon, Dr. Michael Hannigan, College of Engineering and Applied Science.	2015
M.S.	Design Center Colorado, University of Colorado Boulder Masters Design Project sponsored by Medtronic Navigation, Louisville CO	2010-12
B.S.	Mechanical Engineering, F.W. Olin College of Engineering Senior Capstone Project sponsored by Draper Laboratories, Cambridge MA	2002-06

Teaching Experience – University of Colorado Boulder

- Instructor, Engineering Plus Program, College of Engineering and Applied Science. Faculty member administering dynamic and new customizable undergraduate engineering program. Pioneering new cross-disciplinary, hands-on coursework including introductory Materials Science for Engineers and Engineering Mathematics. 2016-present
- Adjunct Instructor, College of Engineering and Applied Science, GEEN1400 and COEN 1400, First-Year Engineering Projects. Guided student teams through the engineering design process over a 15-week semester, providing support, inspiration, and a roadmap to success. 2015-16
- Lead Graduate Teacher, Department of Mechanical Engineering, Graduate Teacher Program (GTP). Served as liaison for graduate students to engage with the GTP while running orientations for new engineering graduate students and offering training seminars including videotape consultations to improve graduate student teaching. 2011-13
- Adjunct Instructor, Department of Mechanical Engineering, MCEN 5208, Introduction to Research. Transformed prior iterations of research basics course for incoming graduate students in mechanical engineering, creating a learning community through carefully planned seminars featuring senior graduate students teaching novices. Fall 2012
- Novel Curriculum Developer, Department of Mechanical Engineering, MCEN 2023, Statics and Structures. Initiated active learning recitations for this gateway course into mechanical engineering, using the body as foundational example to teach concepts related to equilibrium and balancing forces. Trained instructional team to successfully implement new lesson plans and support student learning. Fall 2012
- Teaching Assistant, Department of Mechanical Engineering
MCEN 3025, Component Design Spring 2011
MCEN 4026, Manufacturing Processes and Systems Fall 2010

- Mentor, Boulder Robotics Alliance Landsharks For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology (FIRST) Robotics Competition Team 1157. Engaged with high school students throughout the robot-building process, sustained excitement through off-seasons and build seasons, empowered students to overcome fears and learn how to use both power tools and CAD tools effectively. 2010-present

Research Experience

Postdoctoral Research: Integrated Teaching and Learning Laboratory 2016

- Inclusive Excellence to Bolster Diversity: A System of Capacity-Building Pathways To and Through Engineering – NSF Foundation Research in Engineering Education (REE) project (Award #1160264, $540k). Analyzed and aggregated data over four years of intensive qualitative observations, interviews, and focus groups to deliver findings related to replicating the system model at other institutions for bolstering diversity and broadening participation.

Principal Investigators: Drs. Jacquelyn F. Sullivan, Daria A. Kotys-Schwartz, Beverly Louie, Kevin O'Connor

- University of Colorado Teach Engineering – S.D. Bechtel, Jr. Foundation Grant, K-12 Teacher Licensure Program (Total award amount $1,083,184). Conducted exploratory research in the identity formation of undergraduate students pursuing engineering degrees and K-12 teaching licensure simultaneously to better understand these unique students and their particular navigational challenges and threats to their dual identities as engineers and educators. 2016-present

Principal Investigators: Drs. Jacquelyn F. Sullivan and Malinda Zarske

Doctoral Research: Department of Mechanical Engineering 2013-15

- Actor-Networks of Sophomore Engineering: Durability and Change in Required Sophomore Mathematics Courses – An intensive exploration of the student experience in the required sophomore-level engineering mathematics courses of Calculus 3 for Engineers and Differential Equations & Linear Algebra. Adopted Actor-Network Theory from Science and Technology Studies to observe over 150 hours of official course activities; conduct 23 in-depth interviews with students, teaching assistants, and faculty members; and facilitate focus groups to confirm emergent themes and debate contentious topics. Identified the curriculum as a product of incremental translations over five decades, starting from the Space Age and Cold War and remaining largely unchanged and outdated within our current era. Findings suggest a re-evaluation of the mathematics curriculum is warranted, questioning the power of exams in determining student trajectories and the utility of homework assignments in light of widely available technologies.

Advised by Dr. Daria A. Kotys-Schwartz, in collaboration with Dr. Daniel Knight

Other Graduate Research: 2010-13

- Engineering Education Pioneers Project at the Center for Engineering Learning and Teaching (CELT), University of Washington – Conducted personal interview with notable pioneer of engineering education, Dr. Lawrence P. Grayson. Authored profile of his work and life to be published on the NSF-backed Pioneers Project Online Portal (Award #1263512). Available at <http://depts.washington.edu/celtweb/pioneers-wp/>

Principal Investigators: Drs. Ken Yasuhara, Brook Sattler, Cindy Atman

- Body-Based Approach to Teaching and Learning Engineering Statics – Developed novel curriculum to teach sophomore-level Engineering Statics via examples based in the universal element of the human body. Transformed course for 190 students during the Fall of 2012 by implementing active-learning recitations to encourage experiential learning through tangible sensation.

Advised by Dr. Daria A. Kotys-Schwartz, in collaboration with Dr. Michael Hannigan

- Your Own Undergraduate Research Experience at the University of Colorado Boulder (YOU'RE@CU) Program – Assessed the efficacy of this novel undergraduate research program from the perspectives of both graduate mentors and undergraduate mentees. Using a mixed-methods approach, identified factors for program improvements (e.g. formal mentor training) and impactful differences among mentor models (e.g. boss versus coach models of mentoring).
Principal Investigators: Drs. Beverly Louie and Virginia Ferguson

Undergraduate Research: Franklin W. Olin College of Engineering, Needham MA 2005-06

- Evaluating Effectiveness of Project-Based Learning on Retention of Women and Minority Students – Became trained in basic qualitative analysis techniques including coding of textual data and usage of qualitative data analysis software NVivo.
Principal Investigators: Drs. Yevgeniya Zastavker and Mia Ong, TERC
